Writing and Reporting TV News

This course builds on fundamentals taught in Broadcast News Writing, focusing on special techniques and skills necessary for writing and reporting television news.

It is a prerequisite for students in the Journalism major who are planning to take a Practicum course.

This class is taught in conjunction with a television department course called “Creating the TV News package”